

Holiday message

The Holiday Season is upon us once again, signifying the end of yet another year marked by substantial growth, progress and professional development of the Hawaii National Guard and the entire State Department of Defense.

As we reflect on our accomplishments in 1984, I want to personally thank each of you for your many outstanding contributions made to the department. Your determination to transcend mediocrity and strive for excellence has characterized the department throughout its history and serves as a shining example for all to follow. It is this dedicated spirit that we must all endeavor to preserve.

My expectations for the upcoming year are very high. The three "R's" — READINESS, RECRUITMENT and RETENTION—must guide all of our programs in 1985 as we continue to strengthen our fundamental conviction to serve and defend the people of Hawaii and our great nation with distinction.

As I write this, the nation is celebrating "National Family Week," so proclaimed by a joint resolution of Congress. This, coupled with the holiday season, appears to be a most appropriate time for each of us to look to the growth and development of our own families and loved ones. This is truly the season to count our personal blessings, to enjoy our families and friends, and to establish our own goals for assuring the wellness of our own family units.

My wife, Momi, joins me in wishing you and your loved ones a very Merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year.

ALEXIS T. LUM
Major General, HARNG
Adjutant General.

Hawaii Air National Guard captures majority of National Safety Awards

By Capt. Drew Hurley

HONOLULU, Hawaii — Hawaii Air National Guard (HANG) units captured nine out of 16 National Safety Council Awards for 1983 presented to Air National Guard units nationwide. HANG Commander, Brig. Gen. Edward V. Richardson, received the awards on behalf of his units at the National Guard Association of the United States conference held early October in New York city. The awards acknowledged the HANG's outstanding safety record throughout 1983.

The HANG's 154th Composite Group, Hickam Air Force Base, earned the Council's second highest honor, the Award of Merit. The award continued national recognition of the 154th's enviable safety record. In 1980, the group received the National Safety Council's highest decoration, the Award of Honor. The group received Commendation Awards for safety in 1981 and 1982. The 154th is commanded by Col. John S.W. Lee. In addition to the awards to the 154th, one of its subordinate units, the 169th Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, based at Wheeler Air Force Base, earned a Commendation Award for its 1983 safety record.

Also capturing National Safety Council Awards this year were the Hawaii Air National Guard's 201st Combat Communications Group and several of the group's subordinate units on Oahu and on the neighbor islands. The 201st headquarters unit and the 202nd Combat Communications Flight, both based at Hickam Air Force Base, received Commendation Awards. The 201st Combat Communications Squadron in Hilo and the 201st Combat Communications Flight in Kahului, Maui, also received Commendation Awards. Additionally, the 201st Air Traffic Control Flight, Barbers Point Naval Air Station, and the 202nd Air Traffic Control Flight, Barking Sands, Kauai, received Presidential Award Letters from the National Safety Council. This year's recognition of the safety efforts of the units of the 201st comes on top of 15 previous awards for safety received since 1980. The 201st is commanded by Lt. Col. Ernest T. Shima.

The HANG's smallest unit, the 199th Weather Flight, Wheeler Air Force Base, also received a Presidential Award Letter.

Richardson said of his units receiving more than half of all of the Air National Guard safety awards, "The recognition of the efforts of the men and women of the Hawaii Air National Guard is well deserved. Our organization works hard to protect the lives of our people and the equipment that we are entrusted with to insure that we are always ready to carry out our mission of protecting our country and our state." Richardson also said, "I am very proud to have the efforts of the members of the Hawaii Air National Guard across the state recognized for their efforts nationally. They certainly deserve a lot of credit."

The Hawaii Air National Guard has more than 2,160 members on all of the major islands of Hawaii.

Happy birthday!

As a result of recent historical research, the organization date for the north, south and east regiments, Massachusetts Bay Colony Militia, is December 13, 1636.

Since the National Guard traditionally celebrates its birthday on the date of organization of the first permanent militia regiments, the official birthday of the National Guard is December 13.

Purple Heart status raised

reprinted from the Air Force Times
November 12, 1984

WASHINGTON—The President has signed legislation to raise the "rank" of the Purple Heart to a place just below the lowest decoration for valor.

Besides adding prestige to the decoration itself, the move is expected to give NCOs who have earned the Purple Heart a few more points toward promotion.

The legislation was contained in the 1985 Defense Authorization Act. An official said that it probably would be a few weeks before the Defense Department issues instructions to the services on how to change their regulations.

Originally offered by Sen. John Warner (R-Va.), the legislation calls for the Purple Heart to be given precedence when worn on the uniform by placing it immediately after the lowest decoration for valor.

If a Purple Heart recipient has no valor awards, the Purple Heart would receive the highest precedence when worn on the uniform.

The Bronze Star can be awarded either for valor or for other reasons so, depending on circumstances, the Purple Heart now will rank either above or below it.

One result is expected to be a change in the value of the medal under the Weighted Airman Promotion Systems (WAPS). WAPS now allows only one point for the Purple Heart out of a total possible for medals of 25. The Bronze Star counts five points as do the awards immediately above and below it.

AF officials said it was too soon to say whether the Purple Heart also will count for five points or for some other value.

Whatever the point value, however, the Purple-Heart is expected to move up several notches in the order of decorations and awards worn on the uniform.

"I'm very pleased this has happened," Frank Athanason said in a telephone interview. Athanason, adjutant general of the Military Order of the Purple Heart, said the change was "long overdue to show recognition."

Hale Koa Hotel offers eligibility cards for spouses

Honolulu—The Hale Koa Hotel, Armed Forces Recreation Center on Waikiki Beach, announced the availability of Restaurant and Lounge Eligibility Cards for National Guard service personnel spouses who do not possess a military identification card. To obtain a spouse eligibility card, visit the Hale Koa's Activities Desk, open daily between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. and ask to have one made. Military identification and information on National Guard status will be requested.

This new card will allow spouses to be identified independently as an eligible user of all Hale Koa Hotel restaurants, lounges, banquet facilities and showrooms.

For more information, call Ms. Jo Anne Vieira, Hale Koa Hotel Director of Marketing, at 955-0555.

New reservations procedures at WARC

Effective October 1, 1984, the Waianae Army Recreation Center (WARC) began offering 16 cabins for rentals. Fourteen cabins will be destroyed to make way for new cabins. Effective October 15, 1984, reservations must be made using the following procedures and categories: Active Army, 30 days in advance; other military personnel (active or retired) 20 days in advance; active reserve component and civilian personnel, 10 days in advance. New cabin rates are as follows:

CABIN SIZE	ENLISTED OFFICER DOD
2-bed studio	$13	$14	$14
4-bed studio	14	15	15
6-bed studio	16	17	17
Fisherman Lodge	20	21	21
Harvey House	22	23	23

Volunteers wanted

USO looking for volunteers to work at the Military Airlift Command (MAC) Terminal Lounge at Hickam Air Force Base. If interested, please call Connie Guenther, Executive Director at 422-8041 or Mary Dumeyer at 836-3351, between 7:30 a.m. — 4 p.m.

Get in shape!

The National Guard Bureau is moving toward a mandatory physical fitness program for all Air National Members. Commanders will be provided with implementation instructions for the program during the mid-November Senior Commanders Conference.

To ensure that Air National Guard personnel meet the highest possible state of mobilization readiness, the Air Guard will be expanding their present Weight Management Program to include physical fitness.

The program will include an annual 1.5 mile walk/run or three mile walk, where Air Guard members may elect either method. Members who select the 1.5 mile test may run, jog, walk or use a combination of the three as long as they complete the test. The three-mile walk is limited to walking only. Members who jog or run during this test are disqualified and retested.

The performance standards for either method are reflected in minutes:

Walk/Run 1.5 mile
Age	Male	Female
17-29	14:30	15:36
30-39	15:00	16:30
40-49	16:00	17:30
50+	17:00	18:15

Walk Only 3 mile
Age	Male	Female
17-29	40:54	43:52
30-39	42:04	45:10
40-49	44:25	47:44
50+	48:49	52:02

Prior to the physical fitness evaluation, high-risk personnel will be referred to medical personnel. If medical personnel determine that the fitness evaluation methods should not be used, they may recommend evaluation by alternative methods (i.e. treadmill, stationary bicycle) or may provide temporary medical waiver.

Brig. Gen. Edward V. Richardson, Commander, HANG, suggested that commanders encourage all of their members to start their fitness program on a voluntary basis. He stated "I strongly support this policy because you cannot become physically fit overnight and besides, fitness is good for the individual as well as the HANG."

Price increase on six Army uniform items

WASHINGTON, D.C. (ARNEWS)—Effective November 3, 1984, prices increased on six Army uniform items available at military clothing sales stores. According to the Army and Air Force Exchange Service (AAFES), officials, this represents the first price increase on AAFES commercially-procured uniforms in more than two years. The new prices, a result of uniform contracts awarded by AAFES last March, are reflected below:

	Items	Old Price	New Price	Change
Women:	Dress blue uniform	$102.50	$117.00	$14.50
	Enlisted green polyester slacks	16.00	17.25	1.25
	Officer's green polyester slacks	17.50	18.50	1.00
	Green polyester skirt	15.25	17.00	1.75
Men:	Dress blue jacket	81.00	94.25	13.25
	Dress blue trousers	32.00	34.00	2.00

Exchange mail order catalog requirements

Authorized exchange customers for all branches of military service and other authorized federal agencies serving with, or on temporary duty with United States forces in overseas areas may order merchandise from the overseas edition of the exchange mail order catalog. Orders from overseas-assigned customers must be postmarked via a valid APO/FPO facility. Personnel on temporary duty (TDY) may order from the exchange catalog two weeks before departure and two weeks after return by attaching a copy of their travel orders to the catalog order form.

To enable TS85 participants and family members the chance to review the catalog prior to deployment, HQ Korea area exchange (KOAX) will arrange direct delivery of 1985 exchange catalogs to TS85 participants through their unit mailing address. To order catalogs, individual units should forward the number of catalogs required, a complete unit mailing address and point-of-contact (POC) to: CDR, Korea Area Exchange, Attn: Services Branch (Mr. Brian Barrett), APO SF, 96301.

More than $14,000 raised

Janeen receives check from Hawaii National Guard

By Capt. William Bowles

HONOLULU, Hawaii—Janeen Fukuhara, a three-year-old Kaneohe girl who underwent a 14½ hour liver transplant operation in February, was presented a check for more than $14,000 on November 3, 1984 by the Hawaii National Guard.

The check, presented by the Hawaii National Guard Association and Hawaii National Guard Enlisted Association, resulted from monies raised by the associations through donations and a variety of fund raising events that included barbecue chicken, t-shirt, sushi, and saimin sales.

Presenting the check to Janeen were representatives from the associations, including Maj. Bruce Minato, HNGA President; Col. Haruo Shigezawa, past HNGA President; Master Sgt. Douglas Abe, HNGEA President; and Lt. Col. George Sheridan, Jr., Kokua Janeen Project Chairman. Also assisting with the association's fundraising efforts was the Department of Defense Wives' Club, Na Kuhina Nui O Na Koa Hawaii.

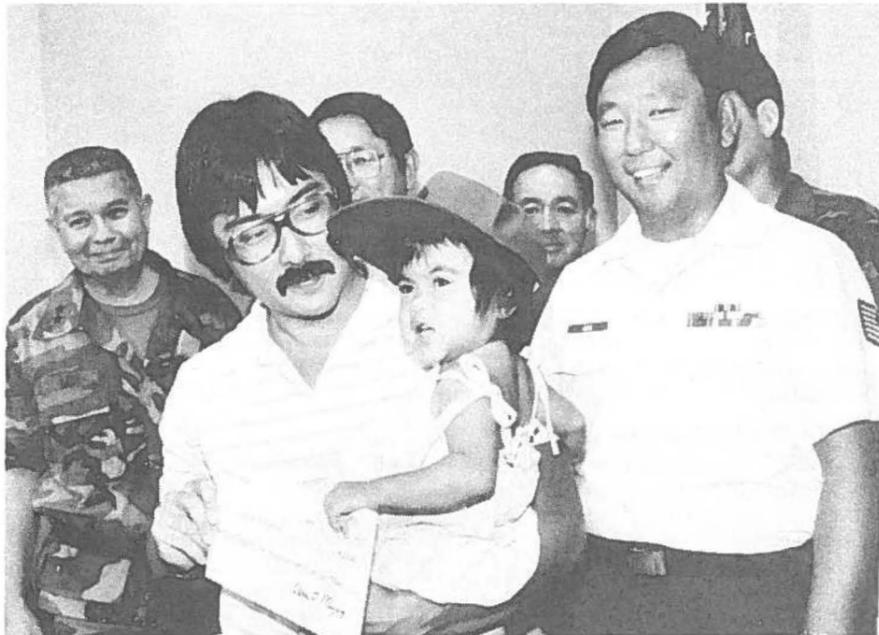

Janeen's grandfather, Sgt. Maj. Ronald Fukuhara, is a guardsman assigned to the Headquarters, State Area Command, Hawaii Army National Guard. He retired in 1982 as a full-time Guard technician but continues to serve as a drill status soldier attending weekend drills.

The association's presentation had been scheduled at the request of the Fukuhara family to be sure Janeen was healthy enough to accept the gift in person. Janeen is still receiving medication to subdue her immune system and prevent the rejection of her transplanted liver. She also has weekly medical checkups and blood tests to monitor her progress.

Since her return to Hawaii in July, Janeen has made steady progress towards recovery. According to her family, she has grown nearly three inches, gained about six pounds, and is able to stand by supporting herself.

"Thank you"—Col. Haruo Shigezawa, past HNGA President, presents transplant recipient, Janeen Fukuhara a check for $14,231. The Hawaii National Guard Association and Hawaii National Guard Enlisted Association raised the money through donations and a variety of fundraising events. L to r: Lt. Col. George Sheridan, Jr., Maj. Bruce Minato, Janeen and father, Patrick, sister, Lorie, and mother, Susan. Not pictured: brother, Cody.

Iha; Barrie Trebor-MacConnell, Information Specialist, State Civil Defense; Sgt. 1st Class Moriichi Ono; Command Sgt. Maj. Toshihara Hamatake; Spec. 4 Antonio R. Sabilla; Sgt. 1st Class Dennis Yoshino; Master Sgt. James Fujii; and James Toyama, State DOD Departmental CFC/AUW Coordinator.

HONOLULU, Hawaii—About 350 people, representing government and private sectors, attended the Aloha United Way's (AUW) Final Report Luncheon. This high-energy and colorful event, which culminated the AUW's annual fund drive for 1984, was held in the Princess Kaiulani Hotel's Aina-hau Ballroom on Friday, November 6, 1984. Department of Defense and Hawaii National Guard representatives included Col. Daniel K.C. Au, James Toyama, Tech. Sgt. Paustino Rivera, Chief Warrant Officer 4 Harry S. Iha, Barrie Trebor-McConnell, Sgt. 1st Class Moriichi Ono, Command Sgt. Maj. Toshihara Hamatake, Spec. 4 Antonio Sabilla, Sgt. 1st Class Dennis Yoshino, Master Sgt. James Fujii.

According to James Toyama, DOD Departmental CFC/AUW Coordinator, State DOD employees contributed 130 percent of their 1984 goal, with each department exceeding their 1984 goals. Civil Defense led the way meeting 158 percent of their goal. DOD Engineering Office, HANG, HARNG, and State DOD departmental offices turned in 134 percent, 130 percent, 126 percent, and 116 percent, respectively. Total contributions for these offices amounted to $7,310,06.

In the Combined Federal Campaign (CFC), the AUW's fund for federal employees, the Hawaii National Guard contributed $44,735 for a "goalbuster's goal" of 106 percent.

To date, the AUW has collected $11,001,253, or 96 percent of the 1984 goal of $11,450,000.

Congratulations and "mahalo" to everyone who helped make the 1984 AUW Goalbuster campaign a ganglebust success!

FORT LEWIS, Washington—It was cold and nothing like the tropical climate Hawaii Army National Guard soldiers were accustomed to, but they liked it.

The training was rough and demanding, but it was something that the more than 500 soldiers from the 2nd Battalion, 299th Infantry, were used to.

Spec. 4 Benjamin Akana, of Company B normally stationed at Kealahou on the Big Island, summed up annual training 1984 at Fort Lewis, Washington, this way: "It was right on!"

"It was a different atmosphere and terrain. We had to orient ourselves differently from Hawaii where we got the hills and puus (volcanic cones). Because the terrain was flat, we had to use trees and roads."

"At Fort Lewis you had to use your navigation skills. And that cold weather—30 degrees at times—was something else."

Maj. Paul Leahy, of the WESTCOM United States Army Readiness Group, said

while observing the training: "It was worthwhile to the National Guard soldiers because the facilities at Fort Lewis are not available in Hawaii, such as the training simulation centers and the vast training areas."

An example of Leahy's statement is the Military Operations in Urban Terrain (MOUT) training complex. In Regenbun, a mock Bavarian village in the MOUT, guardsmen in squad and platoon-sized units assaulted occupied buildings through windows and over walls under the scrutiny of active component instructors and evaluators from the active Army's 25th Infantry Division.

The tirehouse in the MOUT complex is a structure with walls made of tires. Hawaii Army National Guard soldiers locked and loaded live ammo into their M16 rifles and under strict supervision, a pair of men would move into the structure and spray the walls with hot lead, simulating an assault into a hostile, occupied structure.

At Fort Lewis, the men of the 2nd Battalion also did not use conventional stand-in-line rifle ranges. After the firing line was cleared by an M60 machine gun, soldiers with live ammunition in their weapons moved up, closely supervised by range control officers.

A noncommissioned officer watching from a tower, controlled pop-up targets that presented themselves to the advancing soldiers, halting them unless they were shot down. Second Lt. Thomas A. Adarme, Company A platoon leader said, "This is not like live firing back home. The men really enjoy this exercise."

Not to be left out, the 81-millimeter mortar platoons also engaged in live fire assisted by members of the 487th fire support team (FIST) of Oahu. Overcoming early difficulties brought about by borrowing mortars from the Washington National Guard, the mortar platoons completed their required live fire. The men chorused the aiming coordinates radioed from the FIST spotters, set charges, and sent round after round towards the various targets, scoring hits.

With conventional means of battle being honed to precision, live fire of another kind went on in blackened, barn-sized buildings. In front of a large simulated battlefield, men on full-sized jeeps aimed ruby-red laser beams onto a screen simulating the fire of a Tubular Launched Optically Tracked Wire Guided Missile (TOW) electronically scraping tanks and armored vehicles.

After a week of intensive squad, platoon, and company training, the soldiers of the 2nd Battalion took a break during the middle weekend, visiting Vancouver and other Pacific Northwest cities. They returned ready and primed for the battalion-sized field training exercise (FTX) that followed.

On a cold, starry Monday morning, the operation orders were issued. Companies of men and equipment assembled and moved out in staggered tactical convoys meeting at a designated rallying point several kilometers away.

An active component evaluator from the 25th Division observing the battalion's movement from a helicopter noted the professionalism in spacing movement, and the orderly dispersion of each company as they broke off the battalion train to their initial defensive positions. The recon patrols, invisible from the air, had signaled the companies and made their infiltration into their respective areas almost undetectable.

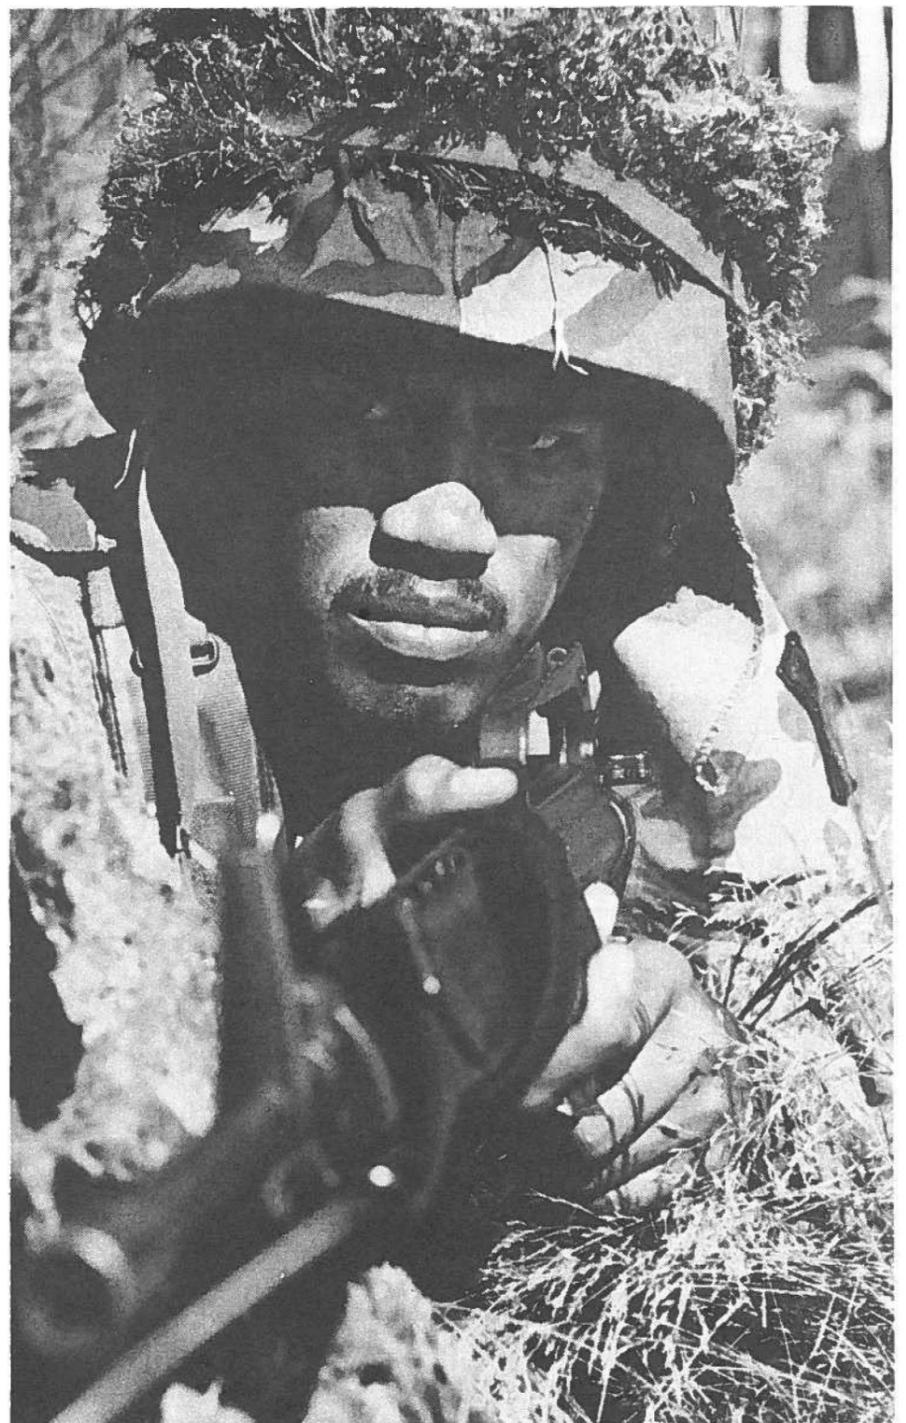

The morning had been in the low 30s. Although the day would warm into the upper 60s, the evening would bring back the near freezing temperatures and fog, which became the main aggressor on the 2nd Battalion, inhibiting movement and navigation.

Maj. Gen. Alexis T. Lum, the Adjutant General of the State of Hawaii, visiting the troops in the field said, "The morale was high among the soldiers in spite of the cold temperatures and inhospitable weather."

To and from the field and various training areas, the men and equipment were transported on vehicles driven by members of the 1154th Transportation Company of Oahu that were attached to the 2nd Battalion. In the field, the soldiers were trucked hot breakfast and dinners prepared in the barracks by the company's mess unit. Staff Sgt. Rod Sakamoto, cook at the Headquarters mess facility said, "This is good training for the cooks. For the first time, most of the cooks were using modern garrison-type cooking equipment as opposed to field equipment that is normally used during drill." Sakamoto said that he and two other cooks used this type of equipment before, but this was not the case for the majority of the cooks. "We usually use the field stove and ovens," he said. Lunch in the field consisted of Meals Ready to Eat (MRE). These are the Army's new plastic foil-pouched meals, different from the old canned rations.

As the scenario for the field exercise unfolded, the battalion split into several units playing defenders and aggressors. Each unit made several moves setting up and breaking camp each time. Active component members of the 1st Battalion, 27th Infantry "Wolfhounds" of the 25th Infantry evaluated the 2nd Battalion Big Islanders of the Hawaii Army National Guard. The evaluators were commanded by Lt. Col. H.T. Linke, battalion commander, and he was assisted by officers and noncommissioned officers of his battalion. First Lt. John Radel, scout evaluator, said: "I was impressed by the motivation of the soldiers. They were eager to learn and improve. They know the basic skills and worked hard to learn the more advanced techniques. I was particularly impressed by the scout platoon sergeant and squad leaders that ran the platoon after their platoon leader got injured."

Capt. Douglas Curtis, Company C evaluator who has been the 25th Division's S-4 for more than two years said, "Company C had the best company supply operations and logistical operations that I've seen in the Army. During the FTX, the men worked hard and should be proud of how much they improved throughout the exercise."

Capt. Jeffrey Miles evaluating Company B said, "I thought they did pretty well on the FTX considering the cold weather. The mortar platoon did a superb job."

By noon of the third day, the morning frost, four-foot high anthills, and eating in the dark and cold seemed like a dream. The men packed at dawn's light and trucked back to the barracks for equipment clean-up.

Said Linke, head evaluator, "If the 25th Division were to go to combat, I would be proud if I found the 2nd Battalion to the right or left of me."

Asked about annual training at Fort Lewis, Battalion Commander Lt. Col. Henry S. Hara praised the performance of his men. He said, "The battalion accomplished its training mission here at Fort Lewis."

Specialist Wesley Pua of Company A, normally stationed at Keaau, said he remembers the ants out in the field and the large ant hills. Pua also said, "The training was different from other annual trainings." Pfc. George Kealoha, an M60 machine gunner with Company C, normally stationed in Honokaa, said, "The deployment was good training."

Pvt. Dale Corderao of Combat Support Company on his first annual training said, "Annual training was pretty good but the weather was cold."

Spec. 4 Francis Crum, also of Combat Support on his second annual training agreed that the training at Fort Lewis was good but that the weather was cold."

Spec. 5 Robert Usagawa, unit clerk with headquarters, said, "The weather was cold but I liked the cool working conditions. The only difficulty was the traveling and trying to adjust to the time change. Overall, it was a good camp with only a few complaints."

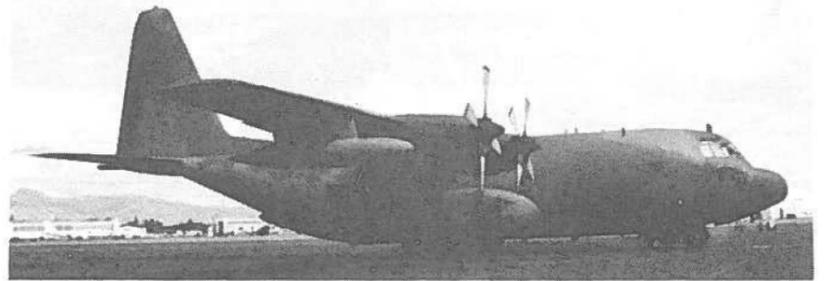

For the most part, Big Island soldiers only had praises for the National Guard and their employers at home for giving them the opportunity to travel and experience this year's annual training. Next year the battalion will return to the Pohakuloa training area for its two weeks of active duty.

Readiness

SIDPERS-ARNG On-line—The Standard Installation/Division Personnel System, located at the Hawaii National Guard Headquarters, Fort Ruger, went on-line on November 1, 1984. Maj. Gen. Alexis T. Lum received the first on-line message from Gen. Emmett H. Walker, Chief, National Guard Bureau, Washington, D.C. Also present were (left to right): Col. Lawrence Siu, Capt. Alan Igarashi, Maj. Gen. Lum and Sgt. 1st Class Albert Suzuki. SIDPERS capabilities include providing increased accuracy of personnel data through use of machine editing, and expanding the availability of management information for planning, control, and execution of assigned missions for unit commanders.

154th Gets its Own—The 154th received its own C-130 on August 25, 1984. The aircraft arrived at Hickam AFB from St. Joseph, Missouri, after making one stop in California.

by Tech. Sgt. Charles S. Gravitt

Hickam AFB — The arrival of the 154th Composite Group's new C-130 A marked the end of an era for the 154th and the end of a long waiting period by pilots from the 199th Tactical Fighter Squadron.

The 154th received its own aircraft on August 25, 1984. The aircraft traveled from St. Joseph, Missouri, making one stop in California before making its last trek to Hickam AFB.

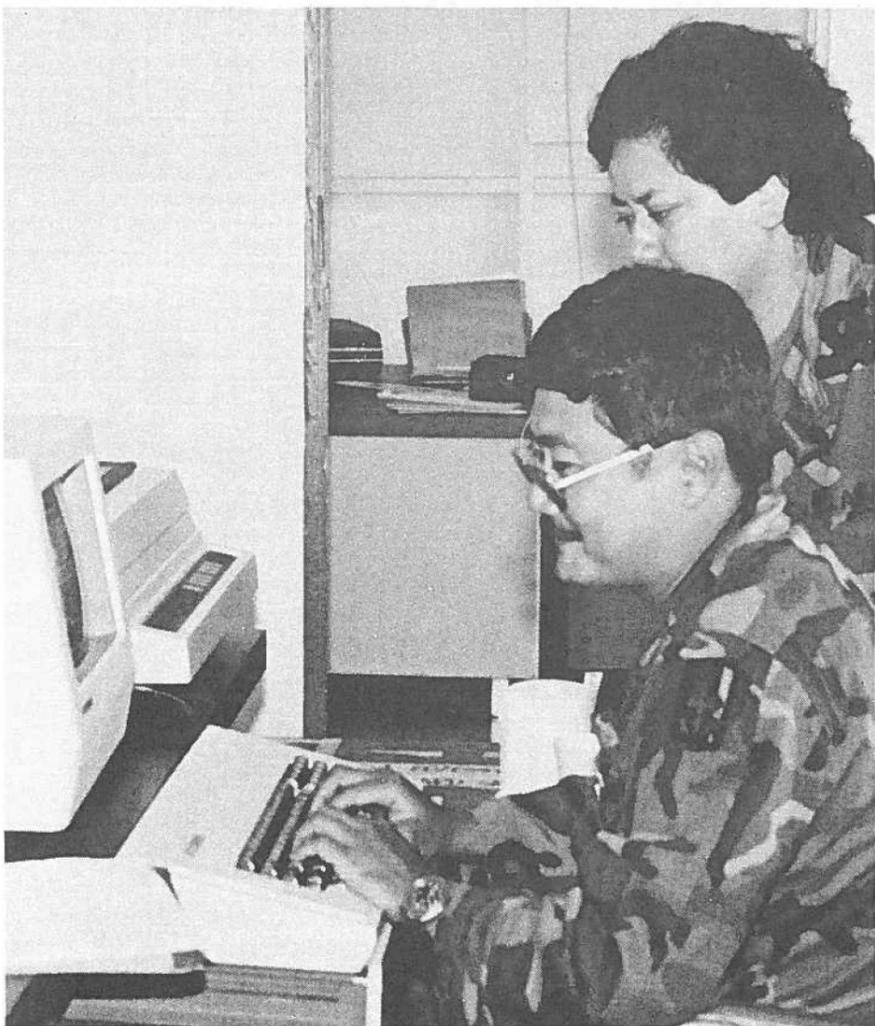

Among those qualified to serve on the C-130 A crew are Col. Kenji Sumida, Maj. Edwin Miyahira, Maj. Patrick Tanaka, Maj. Mervin Honda, Capt. Peter Pawling, Capt. Wayne Nakamane, Capt. Patrick Oka, Master Sgt. Edward Uyeda, Tech. Sgt. Sam Wong, and Tech. Sgt. Melvin Enoki.

154th shows its stuff

The 154th Composite Group is currently demonstrating its state of readiness in the first phase of an operational readiness/management effectiveness inspection (ORI/MEI).

The Pacific Air Force (PACAF) Inspector General, Col. Charles F. Luigs, heads the inspection team evaluating the 154th during the November and December unit training assemblies. With Luigs from PACAF are Col. Ronald N. Running, Director of Inspection; Col. John L. Cotton, Chief, Operations; Col. Travis D. Dabbs, Chief, Logistics; Lt. Col. Michael O. Mullikan, Aircraft Maintenance; and Lt. Col. Kenneth L. Payne, Munitions Maintenance.

The team will evaluate every aspect of the 154th's operations and management, including flying, aircraft maintenance, and all support areas. - by Tech. Sgt. Charles S. Gravitt, 154th COMPG/PA

People

1984 has been a turnover year for personnel assigned to the 6010 Air Defense Flight and the Air Defense Control Center (ADCC). New faces include 1st Lt. Boxley Diggs/Chief Controller; Master Sgt. Ron Beals/Crew Chief; Master Sgt. Rich Burbine/Crew Chief; Tech. Sgt. Danny "Jack" Jackson/Emergency Actions UNITREP; Tech. Sgt. Roger Johnson/Control Technician, and Tech. Sgt. Roger Dague/Control Technician. Welcome to paradise! . . . The ADCC will also lose some members soon—Airman 1st Class Diane Schanker will depart for the Philippines; Staff Sgt. Turk Taylor, Staff Sgt. Koreen Perry, and Senior Airman Tom Kerrane to the mainland, and Chief Master Sgt. Stan Fernandez will retire from active duty in December '84 . . . Senior Master Sgt. Ken Kiyabu was appointed by Brig. Gen. Richardson as the HANG Senior Enlisted Advisor replacing Chief Master Sgt. George Ah Chong. The appointment was effective October 1, 1984 . . . Congratulations to Senior Master Sgt. Melvin Kauahi of the 150th AC&W, Kekaha, Kauai, who sewed on one more stripe in October! And a big "well done" to Staff Sgt. Dexter S.D. Chun of the 154th CAM Squadron, who tacked on Tech. stripes . . . 1st Lt. Bob Anders has just joined the 201st as chaplain for the group. Chaplain Bob (as he prefers to be called) is the pastor of the First Baptist Church of Nanakuli and has been in Hawaii since 1982 . . . Maj. Gen. John B. Conaway has been reappointed as Director, Air National Guard, effective April 1, 1985. Emmett H. Walker, Jr., Chief, National Guard Bureau, recently announced that the Secretary of the Air Force approved the reappointment of Gen. Conaway. The term of this new appointment is four years, expiring on March 31, 1989 . . . Donna Hara, a full-time technician with the 201 CMBTCS Administration Office in Hilo, and a member of the Lehua Jaycee Women, received national recognition from the United States Jaycee Women on June 19, 1984 at their 19th Annual Meeting in Atlanta, Georgia. Hara was named one of 25 Outstanding District Directors in the nation. She was selected from among 89 nominees representing the 50 states. Hara had previously been recognized by the Hawaii Jaycee Women as an Outstanding District Director in Hawaii. Congratulations, Donna! . . . The Hawaii Army National Guard is proud to report that Sgt. 1st Class Wesley Seril, HANG Recruiter, will receive the Chief's 50 Award for the State of Hawaii for recruiting 75 men and women into the HANG during fiscal year 1984. The award will be presented by Maj. Gen. Emmett H. Walker, Chief of the National Guard Bureau, at the Annual Chief's 50 Award Conference in Washington, D.C. on December 4, 1984. In addition to his recruiting responsibilities, Seril has also been involved with Aviator Procurement. He increased the Aviator strength from 70 percent to 85 percent during fiscal year 1984. Seril is a graduate of the Hawaii

Col. Park

Military Academy Officer Candidate School and hopes to activate his 2nd Lt. commission soon. Congratulations, and keep up the great work! . . . There were a number of transfers/reassignments within the Hawaii Army National Guard, including Col. Haruo Shigezawa, HQ STARC, HARNG (-Det 1), from G4 to Additional temporary TDA position, Extra TDA Off . . . Col. Clarence Park, HQ STARC, HARNG (-Det 1), from G2 to G4 . . . Lt. Col. Bernard Watson, HQ STARC, HARNG (-Det 1) from Cmdr. to G2 ILO COL . . . and Maj. Orlan Peterson, Trp. E, 19th Cav., from Cmdr. to Cmdr, HQ STARC, HARNG (-Det 1), ILO LTC. Best wishes to all in your new assignments!

Two members of the 199th Tactical Fighter Squadron have distinguished themselves far beyond their demanding duties with the Air National Guard. Lt. Col. Clinton Churchill, former president of Gaspro, Inc. joined the James Campbell Estate as its Chief Operating officer, a newly established position, effective October 2, 1984. Churchill will be responsible for all estate operations in Hawaii and on the mainland. . . Meanwhile, Maj. Ed. "Easy" Pickering became an "Ace" on October 7, 1984. After a grueling five hour, 28-minute battle, Pickering and his Outrigger Canoe Club teammates conquered the Molokai Channel winning their second World Championship in a row with Pickering racking up his fifth victory. Congratulations to both and best wishes on all your future endeavors!

Lt. Col. Watson

Maj. Peterson

WEATHER FLIGHT GETS NEW ADVISOR

By 2nd Lt. Thomas K.L. Mau

HICKAM AFB, Hawaii—Tech. Sgt. Pete Spurlin (HANG) is the new full-time advisor for the 199th Weather Flight. Spurlin has been with the weather flight for five years.

Previously, Spurlin was a forecaster's aide with the National Weather Service. Prior to joining the Hawaii Air National Guard, Spurlin served as an Army air traffic controller for seven years.

Doc "Gallup-s" to marathon victory

Lt. Col. (Dr.) James D. Gallup, the State Air Surgeon for the Hawaii Air National Guard, joined 10,000 long-distance runners from around the world on November 4, 1984 to compete in the 9th Annual Marine Corps Marathon. The 26.2-mile course, nicknamed "The Marathon of Monuments" wound through the heart of the nation's capital.

Gallup, who joined the Hawaii Air National Guard in 1978, was the only person from Hawaii who qualified to compete in the race. As a member of the All Guard Team, Gallup took top honors in the National Guard members' Master's Division (over 40) with a time of 2:43:32, and placed 135th overall. He completed the race despite recovering from a crushed tibia (bone between the knee and ankle). He had not run more than nine miles at a time in the weeks before the marathon.

While individual National Guard members have been part of the Marine Corps Marathon since its beginning in 1976, last year was the first time an All Guard Team was entered. This year's All Guard Team was selected on May 6, 1984 in Lincoln, Nebraska, where more than 600 Army and Air Guard runners from across the nation participated in the annual Lincoln Marathon (a total of seven runners, three from the Air and four from the Army Guard, represented Hawaii). Top National Guard finishers in the Lincoln race were selected to represent the National Guard in the Marine Corps competition. Gallup placed fourth to make the five-man Master's team.

Gallup's background and running accomplishments are impressive. A 1957 graduate of the University of Wyoming in Laramie, Gallup attended the University of Rochester Medical School in Rochester, New York, receiving his medical degree in 1961. He is currently a pathologist with the Honolulu Medical group.

Upon arriving in Hawaii with his family in February 1974, Gallup decided against buying a car for himself. Instead, he rode a bike to work. He found Honolulu traffic dangerous for cycling, and looked for another means of transportation. At that time, Gallup was working in an office with Dr.

Doc Gallup

Jack Scaff, founder of the Honolulu Marathon Clinic. When Scaff started the clinic in March 1974, Gallup and his family were in attendance. He has been running ever since.

It is more the rule than the exception for Gallup to run 100 miles each week. His 100-mile "quota" includes running 13 miles (round trip) daily from his home in Hawaii Kai to his downtown office. "I start at 7 a.m. and get to the office a little before 8 a.m." If that sounds like a long haul, he continues, "I used to work over at Hickam AFB, and once got arrested for running across the taxiway near Lagoon Drive (to save time)." Did the incident stop him from running? "No, but I stopped running across the taxiway!"

Gallup has held American age group records in the 1/2 marathon (1982) and 50-miler (1978). He also won the National Master's AAU Championship in 1976. Nowadays, he runs about 20-40 races in Honolulu each year, and is currently training for the Honolulu Marathon on December 9, 1984.

Gallup and his wife, Maxine, have two sons, Timothy, who is working in California, and Derek, a high school junior and cross country runner for Iolani. We wish the Doc well in all his future "gallup-s!"

Attention b-ball players!

The HANG State Basketball Tournament is scheduled for February 23-24, 1985. The Oahu tourney is scheduled for February 9-10, 1985. All units will have the opportunity to represent themselves in the tourney; but there must be a minimum of eight players on your team! Nothing less.

Unit coordinators must be immediately identified. This year's tourney is scheduled to be held on Maui! Only three teams from Oahu will make the trip. Competition will be fierce, so to insure your unit's participation let's organize now! If units cannot come up with at least eight players, then teams will combine as last year. Unit teams must be designated by November drill!

There is no time to waste. Point of contact is Sgt. Williams, 449-1608 or 449-5672. Maui! Will your unit be there? Call now.

CNGB tournaments announced for 1985

Official match bulletins for the Chief, National Guard Bureau Matches (CNGB) have been distributed for 1985, according to Unit Marksmanship Support Center Director, Lt. Col. Leo Lujan.

CNGB tournaments consist of Smallbore rifle and pistol matches and combat rifle and pistol competition. The deadline for unlimited individual entries into any CNGB tournament is December 10, 1984, when all Target Set Order Forms must be received by the UMSC.

For additional information, contact your State Marksmanship Coordinator or the CNGB Tournament Coordinator at: Unit Marksmanship Support Center ATTN: CNGB Tournament Coordinator P.O. Box 17267 Nashville, TN 37217-0267
